

The Housing Accelerator combines research, collaboration and philanthropic resources to increase access to affordable housing in Central Texas. Our loan fund provides fast, flexible capital that leverages public and private dollars to accelerate the pace of affordable housing production and meet the urgent need in our region.

By the end of 2025, the Housing Accelerator...

- / Originated 10 loans totaling over $17.9 million, leveraged to support more than $430 million in project costs
- / Had three loans repaid, totaling $6.4 million now available for reinvestment in new projects
- / Funded work on 1,065 affordable units for Austinites earning 30-80% of the Area Median Income (AMI), or between $40,150 and $104,200 for a 4-person household
- / Bolstered an additional 218 units of workforce housing for individuals and families earning 80-120% AMI
- / Delivered 100 units of permanent supportive housing to the market through Cady Lofts
- / Supported housing for people with significant disabilities, people experiencing chronic homelessness, service and care providers, seniors, and survivors of domestic violence
- / Received the “Next Big Idea” award from the Urban Land Institute
- / Was awarded a $6 million grant from St. David’s Foundation to grow the fund
